MANY FISH THREATENED. Provo, June 9.—There is grave danger that more than a million fish will die in Provo, as the water is getting very low and the third run suckers and a great many of the trout are going up the stream to spawn. Deputy Game Commissioner D. H. Madsen said today that unless more water could be secured to flush the river the fish will poison the water to such an extent that all the fish would die.

Mr. Madsen worked all day yesterday and is still busy getting surrounding farmers to turn as much water back into the river as possible so as to flush the stream. He also constructed a trap today to prevent the fish from going up the stream and getting out into the irrigation ditches.

Mr. Madsen said late this afternoon that he believed enough farmers could be persuaded to turn the water back into the river and put off their irrigation for a few days until the fish can be taken care of.

LABORERS WILL STRIKE

Salt Lake, June 10.—According to advices received in Salt Lake a strike is threatened among the workmen employed on the detour at Soldier Summit where the grade of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad is undergoing a change.

The dispatches received say that fully 2000 workmen are ready to leave their places, although local officials of the railroad and also of the Utah Construction company, which is in charge of the work, deny the trouble is of any magnitude.

A. H. Christensen, a director of the Utah Construction company, who has been actively supervising the work on the detour, when asked regarding the reported strike and demands, laid right said.

"The members of the I. W. W. have been trying to agitate the men down there on the work for several days, talking and spouting as they do here on the streets. Last night a number of the men who are employed on the night shift did not go out to work, but they made no demands of me or any of the sub-contractors to my knowledge. The situation does not seem to be alarming, for while there were somewhere between 100 and 200 men who did not go to work last night, it does not mean a strike, and I believe all of the day force will be on hand tomorrow."

"Some of the I. W. W. men are reported to have made threats, and there is no way to protect the men to advantage there on the night shift. Then a number feared trouble and would go to some other camp rather than to be mixed up on either side of a strike. The agitators were laughed at by many of the men and I think they will not cause us any serious trouble."

"There has been talk among the agitators about nine hours and $2.50 a day, but no demands have reached us. As a matter of fact, only a few trackmen get $2.25 a day, and that is the minimum. Teamsters and most of the employees get $2.50 a day or more. The agitators may annoy us and cause us some delay, but I do not fear a strike."

"The Utah Construction company has but two camps there and employs only about 225 men. The rest of the work is let to sub-contractors, and I believe there are about 1200 men employed on the detour work."
